

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIERS STUNNED BY N. Y. WELCOME

Celebration is Surpassed Only by that Given Col. Lindbergh

New York, May 1.—(AP)—After a day in which they received the acclaim of 2,500,000 admirers, the three men who flew the Atlantic in the monoplane Bremen stepped today into a period of comparative quiet.

Although thousands in the streets cheered as they rode downtown for a visit to the New York World building and the sub-treasury in Wall Street, Captain Hermann Koehl, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld and Major James C. Fitzmaurice were freed from the milling throngs that crowded about them everywhere during their formal reception yesterday.

Meanwhile the wives of two of the fliers—Mrs. Elfride Koehl and Mrs. Violet Fitzmaurice—and Patricia, the seven year old daughter of the dapper Irish pilot, withdrew for a while from the hero circle to travel about the city on an informal shopping tour.

Baron Von Huenefeld came into ceremonies apart from those attendant upon the successful flight of his companions and himself. He is 36 years old today and one of his first gifts of the day was a large birthday cake from the management of the Ritz Carlton hotel, where the airmen and their families are stopping. The cake will be cut at a party later.

New York, May 1.—(AP)—Three smiling aviators from across the Atlantic were elated today over their second big storm.

Their procession through a storm of ticker tape, torn pages of books, wastepaper and confetti thrown from skyscraper windows was a reminder of the blizzard through which they won their way to Greenly Island.

As Captain Hermann Koehl said in a brief speech from the stage of the Winter Garden last night: "The storms we encountered on our flight across the Atlantic were the worst I have ever seen. I have never before seen a snow storm such as the one we saw at Greenly Island. However, the storm of enthusiasm we have seen in New York is the biggest storm yet."

In this the German captain was seconded by his flying companions. Major James Fitzmaurice and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld.

The Baron, who had spent the day wildly waving his yacht cap in acknowledgement of the cheer of the packed millions, all the while keeping his monocle firmly intact, reiterated frequently that it all had been most "wonderful."

Was Like Lindbergh's The reception accorded the three fliers was only surpassed by that given Col. Charles A. Lindbergh upon his return from his flight to Paris.

Police estimated that 2,500,000 persons had witnessed the parade; that 1,500 tons of torn paper had been thrown, which required 1200 men and $16,000 to clean up, and that 6,000 police were on duty keeping the huge crowds in order.

There was one member of the party however, who thought the whole show yesterday—marine and street parades and receptions—was rather stuffy, that is until she finally saw her "daddy."

The day was unprecedented for the playing of "The Weir" of the Green" and "Die Wacht am Rhein," and so far as recorded it was the first general doffing of hats for the German anthem since the World War.

Reminders of War Memories of the war were vividly recalled to the two Germans as they sailed down the bay on the city tug Macon and passed the huge United States liner Leviathan as it steamed up the river. Koehl and von Huenefeld saw the big ship which before the war was the German liner Vaterland, smiled at each other and spoke softly in German.

At the Winter Garden show the three fliers were given an entirely unexpected welcome, when a number of chorus girls suddenly swooped down upon them and kissed them. Koehl and Fitzmaurice smiled wanly at their wives in one of the boxes while the Baron appeared to enjoy it. He is a bachelor.

A coincidence occurred when the parade passed the Stock Exchange. Airplane stocks suddenly took a rise, just as they did when Lindbergh made his flight to Paris. One stock jumped eight points to tie its previous high and another rose five points.

Today is Quiet After their uproarious welcome the three fliers today had a simple program which would allow them some rest from the strenuous program they have been through the past few days. It included a visit to the New York World, which jointly chartered the plane that brought them out from Belle Isle Straits, and the laying of a wreath on the statue of Washington in front of the sub-treasury building in Wall Street. Tonight they will be guests of the city at a banquet at the Hotel Commodore. Tomorrow they go to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clingman and Roy Clingman motored to Stanwood, Iowa, Sunday, and spent the day.

Discontinuation of Girl Scouts in Dixon Possibility

Discontinuation of the Girl Scouts work in Dixon loomed as a possibility at noon today when reports of the second day's solicitation for funds which to finance the work for another year were made. At that hour a total of $431.25 was reported, just a little more than one third of the $1200 which will be required to carry on the work another year—and unless the budget is raised the work will have to be discontinued when the available money is exhausted.

The Dixon women who are backing this most worthwhile movement are still hopeful, however, that the generous people of the community will not permit the Scout Council to be handicapped by lack of sufficient money with which to continue the work for another twelve-month and they will continue their campaign to raise the necessary funds the rest of the week.

They make an earnest appeal to Dixionites, in behalf of the young girls to whom the Scout work means so much, to enable its continuation by liberal contributions. Those who wish to may mail their subscriptions to Mrs. E. H. Prince, 709 E. Second street, the treasurer of the Girl Scouts Council.

Duffy Called Model Prisoner by Sheriff

(Telegraph Special Service)

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 1.—The cold steel gates of Fort Madison penitentiary will close late today or Wednesday behind John W. Duffy of Dixon, Ill., who yesterday was denied a new trial after having been found guilty of perjury two weeks ago. He enters the state prison with hope that his chief attorney, George W. Claassen, will meet with success when he appeals the case to the Iowa Supreme Court.

After Judge John T. Moffitt had overruled Duffy's plea for a new trial the young Illinoisian was sentenced for a period not to exceed ten years. He has been incarcerated in the crowded Linn county jail since last December, when he was taken in custody for alleged participation in the robbery of the Alburnett State Bank, of which charge he was acquitted. The perjury charge grew out of his testimony at the former hearing.

Sheriff Manchester said today that Duffy had been a model prisoner and a willing worker, who always wore a smile in spite of the odds against him.

NEW AUXILIARY BISHOP IN CHICAGO IS ROBED

Consecration of Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil Today

Chicago, May 1.—(AP)—In the cathedral of the Holy Name, the Right Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, former chaplain of the Great Lakes Naval Station was today consecrated as Auxiliary Bishop of the Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago.

With neighboring streets thronged, the beautiful cathedral, famous as the gathering place of the International Eucharistic Congress, was filled to the doors today by a distinguished assemblage of clergy and laity from far and near to do honor to the new bishop, who at the Eucharistic Congress was tireless as an assistant for Chicago's Cardinal-Archbishop. His Eminence, Cardinal Mundelein, officiated today in person at the consecration of the Right Rev. Edmund M. Dunne, Bishop of Peoria, and the Right Rev. Edward F. Hoban, Bishop-Designate of Rockford, acting as co-consecrators.

Hundreds of church dignitaries were present in the sanctuary at the consecration—archbishops, bishops, abbots, monsignori, priests and religious leaders from other cities swelling the ranks of the clergy of Chicago. After the consecration, Bishop Dunne of Peoria and Bishop Hoban of Rockford accompanied Bishop Sheil down the main aisle of the cathedral while Bishop Sheil blessed waiting multitudes of people.

St. Mary's of the Lake Seminary choir from Mundelein, Ill., 100 voices, sang the Gregorian chant at the consecration. Some of the other music was by 35 members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Rev. Wm. J. Bergin, C. S. V., a former teacher of Bishop Sheil at St. Viator's College Bourbonnais, Ill., delivered the consecration address.

Bishop Sheil's first pontifical high mass will take place next Sunday at St. Columbkille's church in the Chicago parish where he spent his childhood.

To Attend Funeral of Princeton Man

A number of Dixionites plan to go to Princeton tomorrow to attend the funeral of Palmer E. Anderson, United States marshal for the northern Illinois districts, who died suddenly from an attack of heart disease in his room in the Hotel LaSalle, Chicago, Saturday afternoon. Funeral services will be held in the Princeton M. E. church at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Anderson, who was 60 years of age, returned to Chicago Friday from Washington where he had been on business in connection with his office. Saturday morning he appeared to be in good health and spirits at his office in the federal building. He retired to his hotel room in the afternoon leaving a call for 4:30 p. m. When he did not respond to the telephone bell, hotel officials entered his room and found his lifeless body on the floor.

Mr. Anderson was a power in politics in north central Illinois and was a supporter of the late William B. McKinley. In 1921 he was made chief deputy collector of internal revenue in Chicago and held that position until 1925 when he was appointed marshal to succeed R. R. Levy, who had resigned.

Former So. Dixon Man in Law's Grip

Sycamore, May 1.—Deputy sheriffs raided an oil station conducted by Dewey Breisch on State Route 23, just north of the Chicago Great Western tracks Saturday night and found a quantity of moonshine.

Breisch was taken into custody and given a hearing in county court Monday morning when Judge W. L. Boyd assessed a fine of $300 and costs. Breisch was unable to raise the fine and is being held in the county jail.

Authorities refused to reveal the source of a "tip" that resulted in the raid.

Breisch, former young South Dixon farmer, went to Sycamore last fall and became associated with a gasoline filling station in that city.

Guard Abandoned Marion, Ohio, May 1.—(AP)—Nearly five years of vigil at the tomb of President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding was at an end today for the guard attachment of the Tenth United States Infantry. For the first time since Mr. Harding's death his tomb was left unwatched.

Never for a moment had the temporary Harding tomb in the Marion cemetery and later the large memorial shrine been left unguarded until today, when members of the detachment were ordered to report to various army posts.

Since the time the post was established, August 9, 1923, it is estimated that more than 1,000,000 visitors have been shown the tomb by the guards.

FRIEND OF LINCOLN DEAD

SINCLAIR GAVE HAYS TOTAL OF $160,000 FOR REPUBLICAN FUND AND LOANED PERSONALLY $100,000

Oil Man Broke Silence in Testimony for Oil Committee

Washington, May 1.—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, testifying today before the senate oil committee, said he had given Will H. Hays a net total of $160,000 to help wipe out the Republican deficit after the 1920 elections, but insisted that no inducement was offered to him. He said he had been a Republican in politics, but did not know now what he was.

Sinclair also said that he thought Hays had lost some money in the stock market and that he had loaned him $100,000 which he believed Hays sent to his broker as margin.

His story, told today to the committee, was that he received $757,000 after the famous Continental oil deal, but that his interest in the deal was to protect the rights of his company.

Breaking a silence which has maintained throughout his trials for criminal conspiracy in the Teapot Dome lease and the long Senate investigation, the oil man said he had turned over to the Sinclair Oil Purchasing Company $757,000 in securities and $142,000 in interest after his acquittal here in his recent trial.

Blackmer Gave Bonds. Sinclair, detailing his conception of the Continental deal, whereby Standard and Sinclair companies paid a profit of 25 cents a barrel to the Continental Trading Company, said that H. M. Blackmer, one of the organizers of the transaction, gave him the bonds. He had stipulated that his company should share in the commission, he said.

"I got it in the form of liberty bonds," he said. "They were sent to me over a period of two years."

"Beginning in 1922 and extending to when?"

"I think it was in the fall of 1923."

"From whom did you get the bonds?"

"From Mr. Blackmer. Some were sent by a messenger whose identity I do not know. Whether any were given to me by Mr. Osler—I do not know."

This reference was to H. S. Osler, president of the Continental Company. Sinclair said he kept a record of the deliveries, but did not have that record now.

Sinclair could not say whether the bonds he turned over to his company were the same as those he received.

"What did you do with them as you received them?" he was asked.

"I may have put them in my vault or in the Empire Trust Company."

Given to Company. The witness said he did not personally turn the bonds over to his company; that he left that to his attorney, G. T. Stanford, general counsel for the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company.

"Did you inform the board of directors previously about that?" asked Walsh.

"No, sir."

"What instrument did you execute to the company to show its interest in the matter?"

"None."

Sinclair Walsh asked about the $233,000 payment Sinclair made to M. T. Everhart, of Pueblo, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall.

"I made that payment for a third interest in Secretary Fall's ranch property," Sinclair said.

"I paid $198,000 in Washington and $35,000 later in New York."

Asked where he got the $35,000, Sinclair said it came from his vault, but he couldn't remember which one.

Cites Previous Testimony. Senator Walsh called the witness's attention to his testimony on October 29, 1923, that he had not purchased any property in New Mexico prior to that time.

"What have you to say about that?" he demanded.

"The testimony speaks for itself, does it not?" Sinclair replied.

WOMAN ESCAPED FROM HOSPITAL FOUND ON ROOF

Hid in Ventilator on LaSalle Hospital for 48 Hours

(Telegraph Special Service) LaSalle, Ill., May 1.—At 5:30 o'clock this morning, just 48 hours after she had escaped from her room in St. Mary's hospital here, clad only in nightgown and light kamona, Mrs. Della Gaston, 36, of Morris, was found hiding in a ventilator on the hospital roof, after posses had searched the territory around LaSalle almost incessantly.

The woman's mental condition was impaired, and is believed to have been the reason for her attempted escape from the hospital, where she gave birth to a baby girl eleven days ago. The ventilator in which she took hiding contained a number of steam pipes and therefore the unfortunate woman did not suffer any from exposure.

Suffers Relapse. Mrs. Gaston entered St. Mary's hospital here early in January, and on April 19 gave birth to a daughter. She was being treated for mental imbrout about a relapse.

Doors of the hospital remain locked and the advent of the child until about 5:30 a. m. each morning when they are thrown open to allow persons to attend early mass at the chapel.

It was believed that Mrs. Gaston studied the matter and then when the opportunity offered itself, fled from the place without being seen.

Methodist General Conference Opened

Kansas City, May 1.—(AP)—Guided by leaders who measure their service by decades, representatives of 15,000-000 persons affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church today devoted themselves to perfection of their quadrennial General Conference at the first of a month of daily sessions here.

With 870 odd delegates from 37 countries present, Bishop Joseph P. Berry of Philadelphia for the third time was accorded the honor of presiding at the initial assembly of a General Conference.

In reviewing the work before the conference, Bishop Berry, who has held the rank for the last 24 of the 55 years he has been in the ministry, who expects to retire shortly after his seventy-second birthday, May 13, forecast the treatment of world problems and administrative issues with the church would place the present assembly on record as being "constructive and conservative."

"There are many radical changes to be proposed, but 90 per cent of the Methodists here are sane and normal," he said. "The radical fundamentalists and modernists are a small coterie. We may discuss such things, but they will have no serious bearing on the conference."

After specifying that he was expressing his personal views, Bishop Berry said he expected the conference would go on record again with declarations of policy on crime, world peace and kindred subjects.

"We again will assert ourselves strongly against war, but I do not believe anybody can construe our declaration as being pacifistic in the sense of disloyalty," he continued.

MENU for the FAMILY

BREAKFAST—Cereal with baked apples and cream, oven toast, scrambled eggs with dried beef, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Rice with spinach, rye bread, new onions, banana pudding, milk tea.
DINNER—Ham on casserole, stuffed beet salad, prune whip with custard sauce, milk, coffee.

With the golf season upon us many housewives find it necessary to plan dinners that will bear waiting. The casserole of ham can be kept hot for some time after it's done without danger of drying out and spoiling. The salad is not a perishable variety that easily wilts and the dessert can be kept on ice until needed.

Ham on Casserole
One slice ham cut 1 inch thick potatoes, onions, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon ground ginger, 1-8 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 cup milk.

Trim rind from ham, leaving a rim of fat. Soak for two hours in cold water. Half fill a baking dish or casserole with raw potatoes cut in with salt and pepper. Add a thick layer of onions cut in thin slices. Place on top the slice of ham. Pour in milk and sprinkle ham with ginger and mustard. Cover closely and bake 1-2 hours in a moderate oven. Serve from casserole.

The ham should have an inch rim of fat since no other fat is used for the potatoes.

Wedding Celebrated Saturday in Oregon

A wedding of much interest to many Dixon friends was celebrated Saturday evening in Oregon at 7:30 o'clock at the parsonage to the Methodist church. At this time Mrs. Cyrus M. Hefley, widow of the late esteemed Cyrus Hefley, for many years a Dixon resident, and Wilford L. Merriman, of Shadell, South Dakota, were united in marriage in the parsonage of the church, Rev. B. C. ### Fliers Greeted by Relatives in New York

New York, May 1—(AP)—Two women to whom two of the trans-Atlantic fliers are only "Hermann" and "James" and a pretty little girl to whom one of them is "daddy" today were resting after one of the most strenuous days of their lives.

And if anyone thinks it was easy to wait for interminable hours while the husbands they had come so far to join were decorated and applauded, ask Mrs. Fitzmaurice. "It was ages before I could greet him," she said.

The wives and Patricia Fitzmaurice arrived by liner from aboard after the ceremonies involving their husbands had started. Patsy was in tears when daddy failed to meet the boat.

But at last the speech-making was over and in full view of the crowd at New York's La Guardia airport, Mrs. Fitzmaurice kissed her husband repeatedly while Major Fitzmaurice greeted his wife with one sedate kiss on her cheek. Before this Patsy several times tried to interrupt formalities and clamber to daddy with her teddy bear.

The two women are of extreme contrasting types.

Mrs. Koehl is a chic, athletic looking woman of 25, with a boyish haircut and sparkling hazel eyes. She was attired in a tailored suit of pale, green-blue that ended at the knee, a white shirt and a royal blue tie which made her look like the sports-woman she is.

Mrs. Fitzmaurice, who incidentally is English and not Irish, looked essentially the mother. She has clear, fair skin, dark brown hair and eyes and a sweet, patient smile. She was wrapped in a mole fur coat and wore a small black hat. She is 26 years old.

"My husband is not very demonstrative in public," she said, explaining the difference between the meeting between herself and Major Fitzmaurice and that between the German Captain and his wife. And she did not seem the least disappointed when she said it.

Mayor Walker was kissed by Frau Koehl. "Why not Mrs. Fitz," he was asked. "Want me to be sued?" he rejoined. Resting in their hotel rooms after the parade the two women admitted they could find few words to express their feelings. "Marvelous" and "wonderful" was the best they could do.

State Convention. About two hundred women met there from all over the state representing the eighty-seven chapters in Illinois.

The most interesting parts of the reports dealt with the educational and philanthropic work of the organization. A fund of thousands of dollars is used yearly to assist worthy girls to receive a college education. Recently P. E. O. has taken over the management of Cottey College, Nevada, Mo. This is a junior college for girls, affiliated with the University of Missouri and was a gift made to P. E. O. by one of its members, Mrs. Stockard, the founder of the college.

The biennial national convention of P. E. O. Chapters will be held September 17-19, 1929 in the Stevens Hotel, Chicago.

The Most Expensive Thing You Ever Bought

Now, honestly, what was the most expensive thing you ever bought? Wasn't it the dress, or the pair of shoes that you put away in the closet after a few wearings—the article that didn't quite please you when you got it home.

Sometimes this is because your mind was too uncertain, but generally the article did not look as well after a few wearings as you thought it would.

That is exactly the reason we do not sell "seconds," job lots or bankrupt stocks. Our merchandise must stand the most rigid inspection before we offer it to you. We don't want any of those "expensive purchases" to be from our store, if we can help it.

VOTE THE SCHOOL BONDS.

On Saturday the voters of Dixon will be asked to ballot on the additional bond issue of $180,000 to build the new high school. This sum is needed to make the new school complete. The Telegraph urges a favorable vote on the bonds.

Without this sum, the new building will be inadequate to fill the present needs. It will lack essential space and equipment and the original investment will be, in a measure, wasted because Dixon will still be without adequate school facilities.

The original goal in the new high school movement was to give Dixon a modern high school and, incidentally, improve the grade school facilities. If we do not vote for the bond issue Saturday we will fall short of that goal.

Of all the efforts toward a better Dixon during many years, the new high school is an outstanding achievement and if the necessary money is provided it will be a tremendous stride in the right direction.

If the funds are not provided the students will suffer from the restricted facilities and the city will be injured likewise. Vote for the bonds.

OUR MILITARY PARKS.

The secretaries of war and the interior have asked Congress to transfer seven national military parks from the jurisdiction of the War Department to that of the Department of the Interior.

They point out that the National Park Service, created 12 years ago, has charge of most of our national parks, and that the transfer of these military parks will be in the interests of economy and efficiency. Included in the proposed transfer are some of the most famous Civil War battlefields, such as Gettysburg, Antietam, Shiloh and Fredericksburg.

The main thing is to see that these parks are kept up. As shrines for patriotism they are of incalculable value. No one can visit such a field as that of Gettysburg without coming away a better American. It is to be hoped that Congress will look into the matter and take such action as will best preserve these parks for future generations.

GIRL SCOUTS NEED HELP.

The drive for funds for the Dixon Girl Scouts is under way this week and every citizen who can afford to should donate liberally. When you do so you are building the future womanhood of the community and you are supporting a splendid and worthy cause.

The response to the Girl Scouts appeal, at this writing, has not been nearly so great as has been hoped for. The Telegraph does not believe that Dixon people would like to see the Girl Scout movement dropped. But it cannot go on without adequate finances.

THE GENTLE ART OF WALKING.

Interest in cross-country walking seems to be reviving. There is, first of all, C. S. Pyle's "bunion derby" across the continent to emphasize that we don't need automobiles or airplanes to get from place to place. And the indefatigable Eleanor Sears of Boston has undertaken a 70-mile hike through New England, just for the fun of it.

There are few better forms of recreation. If you aren't used to it, go slowly at first; wait until your feet and legs are properly toughened before you try long hikes. But if you will find it great sport. Fresh air, sunshine, exercise, the joys of the open country—they are all yours, and they bring great enjoyment.

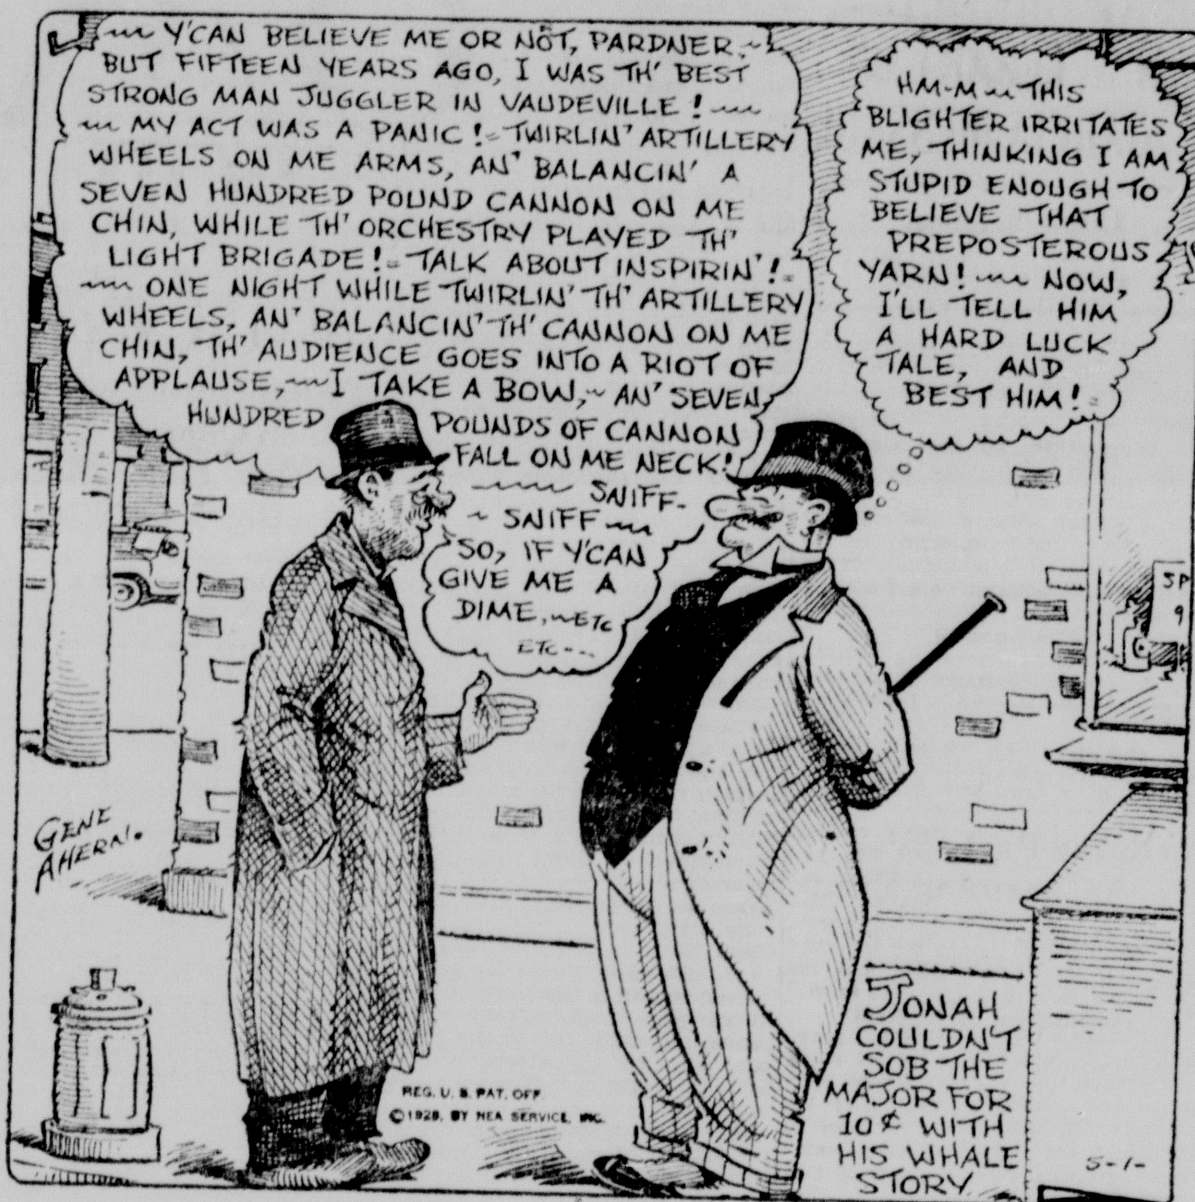

A New Jersey judge, 72, is being sued for alienation of affections. Add that to your Iowa spider, Texas horned toad, Shakespeare-reading prizefighter, baby cigar addict and talking dog.

Chicago is found to be in acute financial straits, with $13,300 in the treasury and more than $1,000,000 in obligations outstanding. It looks as if Mr. Thompson had better let his history go for a while and take up arithmetic.

Al Smith is wearing a brown derby these days. Well, if you were running for president and had to throw some kind of a hat into the ring, wouldn't you pick that, too?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

When both the dwarfs were out of sight, the strange man eyed each Tinymite. "Well, who are you?" he finally said. "I've never seen you before. Like real nice lads you all appear. Now, tell me, do you live near here? If you're sightseeing visitors, I've lots of things in store." Then Scouty raised his little head. "We're Tinymites," he proudly said. "We travel all around the world to see things that are new. We never learn a thing, you see. We're just as careful as can be. We're very glad to meet you, but please tell us, who are you?" "Why I'm a gardener," said the man. "I raise most everything I can. I have some dandy vegetables if you would like to eat. My old wheelbarrow's right near by. Come on and I will let you try whatever you may care for. It will be a dandy treat." "Oh, fine," yelled Clowny. "Lead the way. We haven't had a bite to eat. They found the big wheelbarrow full of radishes and such. "Just help yourselves," exclaimed the man. "Now, don't be scared. Eat all you can, but to be sure you don't get sick, you'd best not eat too much." They found tomatoes, nice and red, and nice fresh cabbage by the head. "Oh, my but this is mighty good," said Scouty with a smile. "That proves how good are vegetables," replied the man. "I also have a flower patch where I'll take you after while." The Tinymites ate till they were through and then their friend said, "All of you hop in my old wheelbarrow and then please sit very still. We'll now go to my big flower bed." "Oh, that sounds great," wee Copy said. And then the gardener pushed them very quickly over a hill.

(The Tinymites work in the flower garden in the next story.)

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH PEWEY GROVES

My dear Marye:

I really think Alan ought to be told about your friendship with that "Fede" as you call him. Dear me, I do hope you don't call him that to his face. It's too familiar, Marye. It may be only a straw, but it shows that you're thinking of him informally. I'm sure you can see that you mustn't let him know that.

The sort of boy friends you had before you were married might have known that you didn't mean anything by whatever you called them but what would you do if this man suddenly addressed you as "Marye?" I hope you insist upon being called Mrs. Meredith by strangers, though I doubt that you do.

I declare it takes my breath to hear Frank's boy and girl friends calling each other sweetheart, darling, lover, thriller and everything else they can think of.

Anyone coming from another country and listening to them would think America was a land of free lovers. Oh yes, I'm using that expression now. Goodness knows I've heard it so much it no longer shocks me. And that's proof of what I've been telling you. Humans can get used to almost anything no matter how terrible it seems to them at first. I wouldn't wonder if we old folks go wrong yet, from the example set us by our offspring.

Anyway I'm sure you'll need a new vocabulary soon if you want to use an endearing term that means something. It's got so that strangers use words that even engaged couples blush over when I was a girl.

But of course, I know he didn't mean to be insulting. He's typical of most of the modern boys and girls, however. And I'm afraid that an ultra modern girl like you, Marye, with your easy speech, will be a puzzle to a man who comes from a country where the boys and girls are more reverent toward their parents. At least I've heard that the young folks of the Argentine are not like the younger generation in America. Mr. Northrop told me. He's been to South America.

When you wrote about your new "friends" I went over to the Northrop and had a talk with Bert. If I didn't have to go and cut some rhubarb for supper I'd tell you what he said. But I'll write again soon. In the meantime, Marye, please don't encourage that Senor Pedro.

Lovingly,

MOM.

"CHIPS FROM WASHINGTON"by
John H. Byers

Washington Bureau.
Dixon Evening Telegraph.
Room 116 House Office Building.
April 29, 1928.

Owing to illness there has been a scarcity of "chips." Now, being somewhat improved in health, there shall be more "chips." I don't guess you home folks missed "chips" much. However, here are some more, hoping you'll enjoy 'em.

Funeral services—very beautiful and impressive—over the remains of Hon. Martin B. Madden, dean of the Illinois delegation in Congress, were held at noon today in the chamber of the House of Representatives. The galleries were filled. The minister in charge was Rev. James S. Montgomery, chaplain of the House and pastor of the National M. E. Church. The Imperial Quartet from the same church furnished the music. Vice President Dawes and Representative Joseph Byrns of Tennessee delivered eulogies, and very excellent ones. Present at the services were: The President and his cabinet; the United States Supreme Court; the members of the Diplomatic Corps; the General of the Army, the Admiral of the Navy, the Commandant of the Marine Corps; the Senate of the United States and the members of the House, besides many other notables in public and private life. At 3 o'clock the remains were taken to the depot and placed in a special train bound for Chicago. After the services hundreds of people viewed the remains. Sixty-four members of Congress, including the entire Illinois delegation accompanied the remains to Chicago.

Since the 70th Congress convened in December, death has claimed nine members. From the Senate death took Ferris of Michigan; Jones of New Mexico and Willis of Ohio. From the House, Stephens of Ohio, Crum-packer of Oregon, Valle of Colorado, Magee of New York, Gallivan of Massachusetts and Madden of Illinois.

Mr. Ben Herr and wife of Sterling were visitors Saturday afternoon. They are on their way home from Florida.

Attorney Wiley Stone and wife of Chicago were here about a week ago. Mrs. Stone was formerly Miss Manning of Dixon.

The McNary-Haugen bill will be discussed all this week and many believe it will receive the President's veto when it reaches him. But there will be a lot of interesting talks about it anyway, and why spoil the fun.

They are going into the convention uninstructed. Many there are down here who still believe that "Cal" will take it in case of a deadlock. And don't forget the silent chap with the pipe up-side down. Anyway there will be a lot of real old fashioned fun down Kansas City way in June. I believe it will be a good place to be. One thing is certain there will be real politics played and it will be some game. The bases are going to be full at one time, and some chap is going to throw the ball which will bring 'em in or put 'em out. Just wait and see.

It's nothing and nobody but Al down here.

No, I can't tell you just when we will adjourn, but it's getting mighty close now. We are cleaning up mighty fast now. Mr. Madden's death stopped us some, but within a few days the work will go on just as if nothing happened.

During the Madden funeral services Mr. Kellogg, Secretary of State, was visibly affected. The poor old fellow is getting pretty old and he might drop off just as Mr. Madden did.

At the Madden funeral services former President Taft, now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, sat immediately across the aisle from President Coolidge. That's a sight you don't see very often, a former President and the President.

Speaking of the death of Madden, permit these personal observations, please. I have known Martin B. Madden for fourteen years, intimately. When I was private secretary to former Congressman McKenzie, Mr. Madden made it a rule to visit our office every Sunday morning to talk over matters with McKenzie. Just three days before he passed away I went to his office and took with me Judge and Mrs. Blodgett of Morrison. We all were seated in his office and he told us about his hard work to keep the Government expenses down. I said to him, "Mr. Madden, you should not work too hard, for some day you will drop off in the harness." The kindly old gentleman replied, "Well, John that's the best way to go, and while I live I must work to keep Congress from appropriating all the money. You know I must help Cal to save it."

How true, and only a few days after those remarks he did drop off and in his office, soon after he had finished his luncheon, which was brought to him. Mr. Madden was the friend of every man. He helped every member of the Illinois delegation. When any member was at a loss to know just what to do about a matter, Mr. Madden was there to help. Men high in public life today, while viewing the remains and listening to the music and eulogies, let a tear or two drop down across the cheeks. He was their friend. He was honest. He was determined and because he hewed close to the line relative to appropriations, he was defeated for Speaker of the House. Yes, he had his political enemies, but every man who knew him was his friend, aside from politics. Illinois lost a real man, a statesman, a worthy citizen, and friend of the man down the ladder. From a poor boy he made a fortune and died respected and beloved by all.

TODAY THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF GARCIA MESSAGE*Man Who Became Hero in Cuba Recalls His Perilous TripBY PHILIP J. SINNOTT
NEA Service Writer

San Francisco, May 1.—Thirty years ago today an outstanding American hero, later immortalized by Elbert Hubbard, was made.

On that date—May 1, 1898—a quiet lieutenant in the U. S. army, "on his own" in a momentous mission for his government, accomplished a feat that has since become a universal phrase for initiative and determination. He carried "A Message to Garcia."

Here in San Francisco today that former lieutenant, now a retired colonel, modestly shuns the limelight and lives the quiet life of a student and booklover. He insists that he did nothing more than any other soldier would do.

"Of course, I am proud of my achievement," declares Lieut. Col. Andrew S. Rowan as he gazes from his comfortable home on Russian Hill, across the vista of San Francisco bay. "I'm glad, I was chosen for the mission—I'm glad I succeeded—but it's all in the life of a soldier, you know."

Immortalized by Hubbard, the retired colonel, now gray-haired, was "the fellow by the name of Rowan" whose daring deed gave Elbert Hubbard the inspiration for his famous preachment, "A Message to Garcia." The latter has been circulated by millions and translated into almost every language.

Cuba was occupied by the Spaniards. Alone, Lieut. Rowan entered the hostile country to carry an urgent message from President McKinley to General Garcia, commanding the Cuban insurgents opposed to Spanish rule.

As Elbert Hubbard wrote, Rowan "took the letter, sealed it up in an oilskin pouch, strapped it over his heart, in four days landed by night off the coast of Cuba from an open boat, disappeared into the jungle and in three weeks came out on the other side of the island, having traversed a hostile country on foot and delivered his letter to Garcia."

It was just 30 years ago today that Rowan completed the first half of a mission that still inspires the nation. After hardships and dangers on sea and land and slipping through the Spanish lines, he galloped into the headquarters of General Garcia at Bayamo. His appearance stirred the courage of the harried rebel Cubans who had been living the lives of hunted beasts as the Spaniards searched plateau and jungle for those favoring "Cuban Libre."

Talks With Garcia
"It was a matter-of-fact soldier talk we had that day," Col. Rowan says. "The United States had declared war against Spain. What could be done to make this short and decisive, with least casualties? How could a joint campaign be carried on by Cuban and American forces? What supplies would the Cubans need and where delivered? Where were the Spanish positions, what were their forces and their morale?"

These and similar matters Lieut. Rowan discussed with Gen. Garcia. Information obtained, Rowan started on his return trip that afternoon. Two Cuban generals and two sailors accompanied him. In a small boat with gunnysack sails and with scant rations, the party evaded the Spanish guns and patrol launches and left the harbor in the teeth of a menacing storm.

There was a landing on the Curly Keys, transfer to another vessel, capture and incarceration as yellow fever suspects at Hog Island, transfer to another vessel, arrival at Key West. Finally, Rowan and his party reached Washington on May 14 and reported to Secretary of War Alger and Gen. Nelson A. Miles.

He had "carried the message to Garcia."

Thanked by McKinley
President McKinley thanked Rowan for carrying out his orders in such a satisfactory manner. Nearly 20 years later the War Department made a belated award of a Distinguished Service Cross.

Since his retirement from the army in 1910, Col. Rowan has resided here with his wife, devoting his time to writing and studying. He seeks no praise for his historic feat and insists that any soldier would have done the same if he had the chance. "I'm glad I brought back the goods, shortened the war and hastened peace," is all that the veteran says.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS*Watching the Big Scoreboard

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Carried along on the crest of a six-game winning streak, Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics were entrenched in third place in the American League today.

After a disastrous start that saw them lose their first four games, they found themselves, bowled over by the New York Yankees in two games, Washington in three and Boston in the opening game of the series at the Hub yesterday.

During this string the Athletics scored 40 runs on 61 hits, made but one error and allowed the enemy only 10 tallies.

Rube Walberg, one-half of the great left-handed team of Grove and Walberg, held the Red Sox to six hits and fanned a half-dozen in the Athletics' 4 to 1 victory yesterday. Bunched hits off Charlie Ruffing in the fifth and ninth innings accounted for all of the Athletics runs.

The Yankees retained their hold on first place by giving the Senators their seventh straight defeat at Washington, 8 to 4. Five errors by Gills and Reeves, young keystone combination, were material aid for the Yankees. George Pipgras was shelled off the mound in the fifth. Wilky Moore held Washington safe the rest of the way.

Buckeye and Brown were pounded for 14 hits as the St. Louis Browns trounced the Indians at Cleveland, 10 to 3. Blaeholder shut out the Indians until the ninth. Eddie Morgan, promising recruit, who was hurt in Cleveland's opening game of the season, returned to the game as a pinch hitter and drove in one of the three runs the Indians scored in the ninth.

Detroit suffered a 10 to 6 beating at Chicago as the White Sox hammered four Tiger pitchers for 14 hits. Red Faber made his first mound start of the year and received credit for the victory despite the fact that he was driven from the mound by a Tiger rally in the fifth. Bill Cissell, costly Sox shortstop, hit safely in his 13th consecutive game.

Brooklyn found its grip on first place in the National League shaved to half a game as the New York Giants buried the Robins under a 14 to 4 score at the Polo Grounds. Jess Petty, silver-thatched Dodger left hander, was reached for eight hits and as many runs in the first three innings. Mann and Hogan hit homers for the Giants while Del Bissonette upheld Brooklyn's end with his fourth circuit clout of the season. Harvey Hendrick had seven assists at third base for the Robins but muffed the eighth.

Seven Cardinal errors enabled the Cincinnati Reds to beat St. Louis, 5 to 4, at the Mound City. Wee Willie Sherdel was forced to stand by and see his teammates throw away a six-hit game. Hughie Critz got the Reds' first home run of the season when Chick Faley, fielding his drive, crashed against a concrete pavilion. Hafey suffered slight concussion of the brain and was removed to a hospital.

Sparky Adams' single in the eighth gave the Pittsburgh Pirates one run and an 8 to 7 verdict over the Chicago Cubs at Forbes Field. Adams, who came to the Pirates in the trade that sent Kiki Cuyler to the Cubs, drove in three runs all told. Strangely enough, Cuyler was the star of the Cubs' attack and defense.

The Boston Braves scored in every inning but the fifth in trouncing the Quakers at Philadelphia, 13 to 6. Boston's nine hits included four home runs.

BRITAIN ORDERS WARSHIPS TO GO TO SCARE EGYPT

Seeks Withdrawal of Egyptian Public Assembly Bill

London, April 30—(AP)—Several British warships and cruisers sailed this morning for Malta for Egypt in connection with the Anglo-Egyptian crisis which revolves around the Egyptian public assemblies bill.

An ultimatum demanding the withdrawal of the bill within three days was handed the Egyptian government last night by the British.

The situation today was grave and fraught with serious possibilities, although in official circles in London it was thought that the difficulties were not insurmountable and the sky might clear suddenly. There was no effort, however, to minimize the seriousness of the crisis.

No Penalty Mentioned
It was stated that the British did not mention sanctions in their note to Egypt as a penalty for Egypt's refusal to comply, but in well-informed circles the opinion was expressed that sanctions would be applied if the Egyptians were obdurate.

It remained to be seen whether the sending of warships from Malta could be taken as a warning of such sanctions.

It was recalled today that in 1924 Great Britain applied heavy sanctions after the assassination of Sirdar Stack, including a large indemnity and occupation of the customs houses in Alexandria. The parliamentary regime was suspended for eighteen months.

The Egyptian stand concerning the assemblies bill is regarded as another step in the Egyptian campaign for absolute independence.

The assemblies bill in effect permits all sorts of public assemblies and prohibits the police from interfering unless disorders have already started.

New Yorkers Roar Welcome to Fliers

New York, April 30—(AP)—Three trans-Atlantic fliers from foreign shores were taken to the city's heart today and given a tumultuous welcome that left them breathless.

The occasion was the official welcome to Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, Capt. Hermann Koehl and Major James Fitzmaurice and it was a welcome in which all the city seemed to be participating.

After a triumphal tour of the harbor, during which the Irish airman, like a boy at play, amused himself by manipulating the city tug's siren in answer to the shrill salutes of a hundred flag decked craft, the fliers were led through the deep canyons of the lower city by 10,000 troops for their official welcome by the mayor.

A light rain fell upon the pageant but it went unheeded alike by the guests of honor and those who stood long hours for a chance to see and cheer them.

The rain was light, but a storm of another sort, the paper blizzard that New York stages for its heroes, raged unabated and the streets were ankle deep with ticker tape.

MANDELL GOES EAST.
Rockford, Ill., April 30—(AP)—Confident of the returning the winner, Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, left today for New York to defend his title against Jimmy McLarnin, May 17. McLarnin will be the most dangerous opponent Mandell has faced since winning the title.

EXTORTIONISTS' BOMBS FAILED IN ROCKFORD PLOT

Two "Pineapples" are Found on Porch of Rockford Man

Rockford—Only the burning out of fuses on two bombs prevented the destruction Friday night of the home of Joseph Trapani and the probable killing of members of his family in an alleged extortion plot, which police are working hard to uncover.

The bombs, two sticks of dynamite, with percussion caps attached and partly burned lengths of fuses, were found by Joseph Trapani, Jr., Saturday morning as he stepped from his front door to go to work at his father's gasoline filling station.

$5,000 Demanded

One evening early in the week the senior Trapani, who is the owner of the Home Oil rompany, which has three filling stations in the city, received a telephone call from a man who gave no name.

The voice over the phone informed him that on Thursday night he was to take $5,000 in bills to the entrance of Camp Grant, where he would be met. He was given no chance to ask questions, but was told that if he did not comply with the order his house would be blown up.

Trapani pondered the mysterious message and decided that he would not obey the order. Believing he had no deadly enemies he was a little inclined to think someone was trying to play a joke on him. He did not report the call to the police.

Thursday night came and passed and neither Trapani nor his son went near Camp Grant. Neither did they send anyone to investigate.

No "Joke" Sat. Morning

Saturday morning after finding of the bombs the junior Trapani reported the matter to the police and detectives were assigned to the case. Only the most indefinite clues were available.

So far as the police know no one in the Trapani family ever has been connected in any way with the illicit liquor business, both father and son enjoying the best of reputations as hard working men conducting a legitimate and apparently successful business.

The police believe that there was enough dynamite in the two bombs to completely wreck the front of the Trapani home and possibly to kill or fatally injure the occupants. They were unable to get any idea of the hour at which the bombs were placed on the front porch except that the extortionists probably were there between midnight and 6 o'clock in the morning.

Imperfect Fuses Used

Fuses on both sticks, they found, had burned to within a few inches of the percussion caps which would have exploded them. The fuses apparently had stopped burning of their own accord because of some imperfection in their manufacture, but the theory also was advanced that they might have been dampened or otherwise tampered with. This theory is based on the belief that the extortionists merely wished to frighten Trapani.

CONGRESSMAN W. R. JOHNSON IN MEMORIAL TALK

Delivered Address at Pres. Grant's Birthday Celebration

In a down pour of rain, with an audience of several hundred people, Congressman William R. Johnson of the 13th Illinois district, delivered an address at the birthday exercises of General U. S. Grant, Friday afternoon at Washington, D. C. The exercises were held at the Grant monument at the foot of the Capitol. Music was furnished by the United States Marine band. Commander John W. Hawk of Cushing Camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War presided and the other organization assisting was the Department of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic. Comrade F. J. Young, Department Patriotic Instructor, Grand Army, also participated in the exercises. Comrade Young is a former resident of Oregon, Illinois. In the audience was a large delegation of Illinois people.

Congressman Johnson, who delivered the principal address, said in part:

Johnson's Address
"I deem it a great honor to have the privilege of saying a few words for General Grant at these exercises, for he lived in my congressional district at the outbreak of the Civil War, and he went into the army from Galena.

"One hundred and six years ago General Grant was born at Point Pleasant, Ohio. He entered West Point in 1839, graduating in 1843. He served in the Mexican War, and during this service he was commissioned a captain. He resigned from the army in 1854, and for six years after he lived at St. Louis where he was engaged in farming and the real estate business. In 1860 he moved to Galena, Ill., where he clerked in a leather store for his father. At that time his earning capacity seemed not to exceed $800 per year.

"General Grant entered the Civil War in 1861 and was commissioned a colonel of the 21st Illinois regiment and soon after was commissioned a brigadier-general. He was commissioned a Major General in 1863 and was commissioned Lieutenant General of the armies in 1864.

Reviewed Campaign.
"When Grant, in command of the Western army, sought to reduce Vicksburg, in which others had failed, he did not invade it from the north, but passing on the west bank of the Mississippi River down to the little town of Bruinsburg, below Port Gibson, he there crossed his troops and his trains, and there severed his communication with the authorities at Washington. Between Port Gibson and Jackson and Vicksburg Grant wedged his army between those of Johnston, Pemberton and Gardner. Fighting in the rear of Port Gibson, he soon drove Gardner back into his fortifications, and then, moving with unusual celerity to Jackson—the capital of Mississippi—he there engaged Johnson and drove him east of the Pearl River. Without waiting for his troops to rest more than an hour he retraced his steps, and, meeting Pemberton at Champion Hill, he defeated him, driving him west of the Black River and finally into Vicksburg, which culminated in a surrender on the 4th of July following. In my judgment no other general who lived and took part in the great Civil War could have accomplished this great feat.

"From that grew his fame, and his services were demanded to take command of the Army of the Potomac. When he took command of that magnificent army that had been mustered and drilled by McClellan and other military chieftains of great renown, failure was predicted. Yet with good judgment and indomitable courage he fought the wonderful battle of the Wilderness, forcing Lee back slowly, but nevertheless surely; then Spotsylvania; then Cold Harbor. Then came that which astonished the authorities at Washington; he passed south of the James River, leaving but a few men between Washington and Richmond, and laid siege to Petersburg, which resulted in the complete route on the course of time of Lee's army and the surrender at Appomattox. These two campaigns, in my judgment, stamps him as a military genius who far outshines any man in modern times.

Terms of Surrender
In closing his address Congressman Johnson read the terms of surrender he submitted to General Lee. Appomattox Court House, April 9, 1865.

General: In accordance with the substance of my letter to you of the 8th instant, I propose to receive the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia on the following terms, to wit: Rolls of all the officers and men to be made in duplicate, one copy to be given to an officer to be designated by me, the other to be retained by such officer or officers as you may designate; the officers to give their individual paroles not to take up arms against the Government of the United States until properly exchanged, for each company or regimental commander to sign a like parole for the men of their command. The arms, artillery, and public property to be parked and stacked and turned over to the officers appointed by me to receive them. This will not embrace the side arms of the officers nor their private horses or baggage. This done, each officer or man will be allowed to return to his home, not to be disturbed by United States authority so long as they observe their paroles and the laws in force where they may reside.

U. S. GRANT,
Lieutenant-General.

General R. E. Lee.
"General Grant possessed the rare mental excellence of expressing himself with technical accuracy in the fewest words possible. Not a word can be taken from this great war paper without marring its beauty and perfection."

We have had made at great expense by the Kenyon Map Co., an up-to-date map of Lee county. By paying a year's subscription to the Telegraph which is $5.00 in Lee and adjoining counties may have one of these maps.

CANNED GOODS WHOLESOME

The title of "Canned Goods" is generally restricted to foods put up in tin cans and sterilized by heating. The object in all kinds of canning is the same, that is, to kill all micro-organisms started, and then by the exclusion of all air to prevent any new ones from gaining entrance. Microorganisms speedily render any food unfit for consumption because they induce fermentation.

There are many varieties of canned foods on the market. All kinds of food, including fish, poultry, meat, vegetables, fruit, etc., are put up in cans, and the United States stands today as the foremost exponent of canned goods, the output of this country being considerably greater than the total of all other parts of the world combined.

The first method of canning was a process invented by a Frenchman named Francois Apper, a little more than a hundred years ago, and has been improved and amplified by modern mechanical devices and equipment. In this country the canning of all kinds of foods developed very rapidly during the Civil War period. The industry has gradually expanded because of the need of a greater conservation of vegetables and perishable goods of every kind.

Today our canneries serve the need largely as community kitchens in which all the rough and dirty work of preparing vast quantities of food is done for the convenience and nourishment of innumerable households. Thousands of acres of fruit, grain, and vegetable land, and great herds of cows, and fisheries, are dedicated to their service.

The details in canning methods vary with different foods. Some foods are placed in the cans in a raw condition, and others are first blanched or parboiled, as with asparagus, beans and peas.

The time required to insure sterilization varies. With some vegetables, those of a tougher texture require a longer time for the full heat to penetrate to the center of the can; also, because of their peculiar composition, some foods need very long processing.

As long as fresh, sound foods are used, if sterilization has been complete and if the cans are very tight, the contents, whether meat, vegetables or fruit, will be of equal nutritive value to those cooked in the household. Some dietitians argue that the vitamin content is lowered by food standing in a can for months before it is used, but there is no evidence to show that this decrease is very great.

Some of the best canned foods to use are: spinach, asparagus, string

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS
MULLEN HAPPY: FINDS HEAVIES WHO CAN PUNCH
Von Porat and Les Marriner Astonish Chicago Ring Fans

Chicago, May 1—(AP)—Two heavyweights, who can whip across quick knockouts with either fist and who can "take it," have at last resurrected Promoter Jim Mullen's hopes of finding another Jack Dempsey.

Astounding 10,000 boxing fans and even the optimistic Mullen, these two punchers, Otto Von Porat of Norway and Les Marriner of the University of Illinois, knocked out their opponents in less than one round each last night. Von Porat's victim was the 249-pound Indian giant, "Tiny" Roebuck, while Marriner battered Jackie Williams of Chicago, Gene Tunney's erstwhile sparring partner, into submission.

After catching a flurry of slashing rights that would floor many good heavies, the Norwegian "cave man" dove into Roebuck, planting a series of smashing rights and lefts that crashed the giant to the canvass. It took him just two minutes and seven seconds to do it, although he was outweighting 61 1/2 pounds.

The Marriner-Williams setto started and ended in much the same manner. Marriner caught a few hard smashes and then dove into his opponent with unabated fury, nailing him to the floor thirty seconds after the first round started. Williams, a shifty fighter of the Tunney type, was badly beaten and was in a daze for fully ten minutes after the count. The victory marked the eleventh knockout in twelve starts for the Illinois student since he joined the professional ranks. Only one fighter has held him to a decision and that man later was knocked out by Marriner, who shifts like a fast lightweight and socks like a pile driver.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
QUESTION: Mrs. J. H. I. writes: "I read your advice every day and think it is wonderful. Will you please tell me what causes the feeling as if there is a lump in one's throat? My doctor tells me it is nervousness. The ten years I have had this trouble have been terrible to me."

ANSWER: The nervousness you are suffering from and the lump in your throat are doubtless caused by some form of thyroid derangement, perhaps a small goiter. Another cause of a choking feeling in the throat comes from pelvic disorders, such as metritis, enteritis, or from rectal trouble.

QUESTION: R. J. asks: "When fasting on orange juice can one drink during the day, water in which vegetables have been cooked?"

ANSWER: If you wish to take the vegetable juice diet you should not do so while taking the orange juice. You might try the vegetable juice one day and the orange juice the next.

QUESTION: Mrs. B. asks: "Will you please tell me the food elements of gelatin?"

ANSWER: Gelatin is a form of protein, very beneficial to the body as a food. Those in health will find it advantageous to include it in the diet quite often, and it is tremendously helpful to those inclined to nose-bleed, on account of its blood-coagulating powers.

QUESTION: K. L. writes: "I have used cocoa-butter for four weeks for a thin face, but it has not helped. Can you suggest anything better?"

ANSWER: There is not much you can do for a thin face except through increasing the circulation through the tissues you will be able to make a "shapelier" face. This applies to the fat as well as the thin face.

FIRST ELECTROCUTION IN ILLINOIS SET FOR MAY 11
Springfield, Ill.—Under the change in the state law substituting the death chair in Illinois for hanging, the first legal execution under the new law will take place at the Southern Illinois Penitentiary, Menard, on May 11. On that date Joseph Bella, convicted in Vermilion county for the murder of Julia Flaherty will be executed, under the stay granted from April 13.

Death chairs in Illinois are located at the two penitentiaries and the Cook county jail. Execution of Bella will occur within two score miles of the scene of the scene of the first legal hanging in Illinois, Timothy Bennett being hanged at Belleville on Sept. 3, 1821, for the slaying of Alphonso C. Stewart in a duel.

ACTION OF INSURANCE CO. HEAD IS ILLEGAL
Lincoln, Neb., April 30—(AP)—The action of W. A. Fraser, Sovereign Commander of the Woodmen of the World and others, in using $2,000,000 of W. O. W. funds to organize the Globe Life Insurance Co. was illegal, District Judge Fred Shepherd held today in finding for the plaintiff, W. B. ### TESTER OF OGLE CO. DAIRY ASSN. ANNUAL REPORT

Chester Becker Gives Interesting Information
About Work

BY CHESTER BECKER
Tester Ogle Co. Dairy Herd
Improvement Assn.

It is my belief that the benefits derived from Dairy Herd Improvement work are directly proportional to the man's interest and ability as a dairyman.

I have never met a dairyman who could not improve in his methods, but still it seems that the more progressive men in this line of work are the ones to grasp the worth while things and improve at a faster rate. Any man who really desires to be a good or better dairyman will find the Cow Testing Association a great help.

The average dairyman in a Cow Testing Association can double his income without adding more acres to his farm or building larger barns or using more labor. All he needs to do is feed his cows a little more liberally, breed to better types, sell the boarder cows producing less than 300 lbs. of butterfat and be more punctual at milking and feeding time.

By studying the herd book, a man can learn which of his cows are the most profitable and thereby make selection of the heifer calves to be raised. The time is surprisingly short until he has a herd of selected animals.

It is certainly necessary to cull out the unprofitable cows for one or two poor cows may cut down the profits that as many more are making.

The Ogle County Dairy Herd Improvement Association during the year 1927 has proven that:

Feeding grain to heavy producing cows while on pasture is a paying proposition.

Feeding a balanced ration, according to production, will net a larger profit and keep the cows in better condition.

Cows will hold up to heavy production for a longer period of time when allowed to graze on sweet clover or red clover pasture or when fed silage during the latter summer months.

Good equipment makes a good dairyman better.

It is sound economy to feed enough of the right kind of feed.

Cutting down on the feed supply for dairy cows so that they get less feed than is required to maintain their weight and keep up their flow of milk is poor economy and costly practice.

The best way to economize on feed for dairy cows is to grow and feed an abundance of good legume hay and other good roughages.

Eighty percent of the men who stay in the Cow Testing Association more than one year will increase their average over those of previous years.

The yearly report on twenty members of the Ogle Association revealed the average milk production at 8636 lbs. and butterfat 322.6 lbs.; at the close of the year the records showed 223 pure bred and 125 grade cows.

Six years ago J. W. Hemingway joined the Cow Testing Association and his first yearly average was 8750 lbs. milk and 294 lbs. butterfat. Throughout the past five years of careful culling feeding and breeding Mr. Hemingway has gained nationwide recognition as a good dairyman. His average for the past five years is 11,875 lbs. milk and 426.6 lbs. butterfat and his average for the year 1927 is 13,157 lbs. milk and 469.9 lbs. butterfat. Three cows made more than 500 lbs. of butterfat and all the cows are milked twice daily only. Mr. Hemingway is an excellent example of a good dairyman who has taken advantage of the opportunities offered in cow testing.

Rock River Farms of Byron placed second in the Ogle Association with a average production of 11,300 lbs. of milk and 390.05 lbs. fat. Sixty-six and six tenths percent of their herd of 88 cows are less than four years old. Thirty-two, or more than one-third of the herd, are two years old and we have every reason to say that this is indeed a remarkable average.

Geo. Stultz, Jr., of Sinnissippi Farm No. 4, has increased his herd average every year since he became a member of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. He started the herd in 1922 and his average in butterfat production from 1922 to 1926, inclusive, were 290 lbs., 250 lbs., 238 lbs., 529.9 lbs. and 378.2 lbs., respectively. For the year 1927 Mr. Stultz's average production was 12,225 lbs. milk and 388.5 lbs. fat and there is every indication from the enthusiasm, interest and attention given his herd that his averages will continue to increase.

Cyrus Bolthouse, of Sinnissippi Farm No. 10, has had wonderful success with his herd of grade Holsteins. He has increased his average from 350 lbs. fat to his 1927 average of 11,167 lbs. milk and 382.8 lbs. fat. Mr. Bolthouse is regular and consistent and knows his herd book from cover to cover.

Ralph Pyse of Sinnissippi Farm No. 2, also has a good herd of grade Holsteins and has made remarkable progress in developing his herd. Four years ago the butterfat average was 217 lbs. fat. In 1926 it came up to 10,465 lbs. milk and 352.3 lbs. fat. In 1927 his average was 10,829 lbs. milk and 376.0 lbs. fat. Mr. Pyse is very much interested in cow testing and makes use of it to the full extent.

An average of three hundred pounds or more of fat places the herd owner on the National Dairy Honor Roll and he is given a certificate of award of the Department of Agriculture.

Other members to receive certificates are as follows: A. D. Heintzelman whose herd of Guernseys produced an average of 6877 lbs. milk and 358.1 lbs. fat. In consideration of the fact that Guernseys are one of the smaller breeds it is quite evident that this is an accomplishment.

L. M. Gentry, 10,323 lbs. milk and 356.6 lbs. fat. Mr. Gentry's cows are pure bred Holsteins and always show the effects of proper care and feeding.

A herd of nine pure bred Holsteins belonging to H. T. Green of Sinnissippi Farm No. 8, averaged 9174 lbs. milk and 333 lbs. fat.

W. A. Heintzelman and his herd of pure bred and grade Guernseys averaged 3167 lbs. fat and 6383 lbs. milk. Six of Mr. Heintzelman's 14 cows were two years old and may be expected to produce a great deal more in the next lactation period.

Elmer Hoover, of Sinnissippi Farm No. 7, averaged 9269 lbs. milk and 309.7 lbs. fat.

Corndon Kroehner's herd averaged 7266 lbs. milk and 301.1 lbs. fat.

A number of other members were handicapped with disease, etc., and in many cases the plans were somewhat broken up but Ogle County has established a name for itself as one of the best and most progressive dairy sections in Illinois.

Federal Farm Facts

There is a slightly larger supply of farm labor this year than in the same period of 1927. According to the Department of Agriculture, this is caused by the lower volume of industrial employment. However, farm wages remain at about the same level—166 per cent of the pre-war mark.

The majority of the 135 radio stations that have broadcast the educational features of the Department of Agriculture during the past winter season, will continue with the department's summer course. Four features, Housekeepers' Chats, Farm Flashes, the Farm News Digest and the Agricultural Situation, make up the program.

Louis G. Michael, government economist, informs us that France is steadily emerging from its war seclusion and that a higher standard of living is creating a larger demand for cereals, animal products, cotton and tobacco. This demand opens the road for larger American exports to that country.

To J. W. Sale and J. B. Wilson, chemists of the Department of Agriculture, we are indebted for the recent process of manufacturing a genuine maple flavoring. This is the first successful attempt at making this flavor and already steps have been taken to put it on the market.

Using pads of dry grass, it has been found by the Forest Service that a cigarette butt thrown on the grass would ignite it in 90 per cent of the cases with a wind of 3 to 4 miles an hour. It's fortunate that not all of the 170,000 cigarettes that are discarded every minute are not thrown away in some forest or woodland.

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Springfield, Ill. — (AP) — Since March the predominant trend of farm prices has been upward, according to Prairie Farmer's agricultural review for the week.

The rise in steer prices in the three weeks ending April 14 attracted the largest runs since late February. Prices of heavy steers dropped 50 to 75 cents to the lowest point of the season. Long yearlings and handyweights gained 25 cents, selling on a par with heavies for the first time in many months. Light veal calves declined $1.50 to $2 during the week. Prevailing prices for steers are $2.50 to $2 higher than a year ago.

The perpendicular rise in hog prices which started early in April carried the Chicago top up to $10.40, a rise of $2 in three weeks and the highest since last November. Light receipts, strong in western shipping demand, and a sharp rise in fresh pork prices were responsible for the rise. The advance promises to carry a little further before its terminates. The market, however, will undoubtedly stay on a higher level than during the winter.

Receipts of fat lambs have been extremely light during the last ten days and prices have advanced to a new winter peak at $18.15 at Chicago. Since only 310,000 lambs were left on feed in the Colorado-Nebraska feeding districts April 7 compared with 255,000 a year previous and higher numbers in the preceding years, it seems probable that lamb prices will continue on a comparatively high level until the spring crop is marketed.

While trading in wool is slow, sellers remain confident. Demand for fine wools has broadened recently. Confirmation of severe damage to the winter wheat crop stimulated a big wave of speculative buying in the last week which carried prices to a new high point for the season. Domestic prices are nearly as high as Liverpool so export sales are light. The visible supply is decreasing slowly, owing to the light exports and the fact that primary receipts remain larger than usual at this season of the year.

After moving in a general downward direction for a month, corn prices strengthened in the last few days and advanced to a new high point for the season. The rise was partly due to speculative demand which appeared in wheat and then spread to other grains. The visible supply has decreased in each of the last four weeks.

Early April freezes took a heavy toll of spring sown stands of red clover which will mean that a considerable re-seeding will have to be done. Moderate offerings of hay are the principal sustaining factors in the steady market although demand has been more active during the past few weeks.

Receipts of eggs arriving at the large distributing markets last week were more than five per cent smaller than in the preceding two weeks, largely a result of the irregular weather which curtailed the lay temporarily and interfered with deliveries. Production is approaching the flush period. While there is some hesitancy to store eggs at present prices which are more than three cents a dozen higher than a year ago, the movement into storage continues to absorb the surplus from day to day.

Butter values have been steadier during the last week although the market still has the nervous, unsettled undertone which is typical just prior to the opening of the new season.

The Farm Week in Washington

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington — (AP) — Hearings on the Norbeck-Haugen amendment to the oleomargarine law have been completed by the agricultural committees of the house and senate, leaving a score of private and public interests to mark time until the measure emerges for debate.

Considered of more consequence to the butter industry than any legislation since the "oleo" act itself, the amendment is supported by all dairy and farm organizations and opposed by the manufacturers of so-called "nut" products and cooking compounds that resemble oleomargarine, and to a lesser degree by producers of the oils and ingredients used in the new substances.

Oleomargarine packers are in the vanguard of those supporting the amendment, asking that congress either abolish the tax and regulations imposed on their industry or so broaden the scope of the law that producers of Nut, New Nut, and eleven similar products be placed on the same basis as themselves. They charge unfair competition of products that resemble their own yet escape taxation and federal jurisdiction.

The kernel of the proposed amendment is the provision that the new nut and oil products, now made in six different states and sold in 20, be "churned, emulsified or mixed in cream, milk, water or other liquid, and contain moisture in excess of one percent." Heretofore they have been made in brine or water and although they have the color, moisture, saltiness and general texture of butter, the courts have held they are not oleomargarine, which is made in milk or cream.

Proponents told the committees the one percent moisture limit was placed in the bill because the nut products are sold as "cooking compounds," containing from 10 to 12 percent moisture almost the moisture content of butter, whereas the department of agriculture rules that hard or other perfect types of cooking compounds may not contain more than one percent.

All samples of nut products shown the committees were as yellow as butter and put up in packages like butter packages. Some of it was advertised as "better than butter."

It is on this score that oleomargarine interests complain of unfair competition. They point out that their taxes reach millions of dollars a year and declare that unless the definition of oleomargarine be revived to incorporate present nut products and subject them to the same government control, oleomargarine manufacturers will be forced into the production of similar compounds, untaxed and unlicensed.

Nut products are said to be made of peanut oil, coconut oil, and to some extent from cottonseed oil. Members of congress from regions producing such ingredients have questioned the effect of the Norbeck-Haugen amendment on the economic position of oil crops.

Wheat in Illinois in Poor Condition

Springfield, Ill. — Survey of winter wheat condition in Illinois as of April 1 shows the condition but 37 per cent of normal, or the lowest on record, according to the state and federal departments of agriculture.

Both winter and spring conditions have been unusually adverse for both fall sown grains and tame grass hay, the report says. Early indications forecasted that the loss of winter wheat could fall below the 53 per cent estimate of 1912.

Pastures Are Slow.
Rye condition is below normal, but better than wheat. Pastures have been slow in starting, due to dry weather.

Fruit prospects are reported favorable for apples and spotted to fair for peaches, unless damage from frost has been suffered since the survey.

Weather conditions have been ideal for spring farm work, which is off to an early start. Plowing and planting are far above the average.

Winter wheat made a favorable start last fall but was followed by winter and spring conditions that were extremely unusual in that nearly all of the damage factors that usually cause winter and spring killing of wheat have been present at one time or another.

The farm labor situation continues to show the supply of farm labor is in excess of the demand. Farm wages are reported slightly lower than a year ago.

Visible Grain Supply

New York, May 1 — (AP) — The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels:
Wheat decreased 2,004,000.
Corn decreased 3,833,000.
Oats decreased 1,322,000.
Rye increased 122,000.
Barley decreased 360,000.

STATE FARMERS' INSTITUTE BACK OF MADDEN BILL

Declare It is the Only
Feasible Muscle
Shoals Plan

Springfield, Ill. — (AP) — Speaking for the Illinois Farmers' Institute, H. E. Young, secretary declared that the Madden Bill was the only feasible measure yet presented to Congress, for the development and operation of the government properties at Muscle Shoals.

In a public statement, Young said that the bill not only provided for leasing of the project to "responsible and competent private operators who are required under its terms to produce fertilizers on a guaranteed cost-plus basis, but reserves for the government ample protection in matters of control both in times of peace and war."

"The Illinois Farmers' Institute," he declared, "has never favored government operation of industrial enterprises. The recollection of the billion dollars lost by the government in trying to make airplanes, another billion lost in operating railroads, the steady decline in American shipping under government operation and management, and the disastrous financial results of our government operation and management, and the disastrous financial results of our government irrigation developments all warn the public against another costly excursion into this paternalistic field."

If the government operation plan was logical, Young said, "why then did our government experts decline to favor the project?"

"To be sure the government can make fertilizer at some price. But the point is, at what price? Not more fertilizer at high cost but cheaper fertilizer to reduce the cost of production is what is needed."

"Dr. F. G. Cottrell, Director of the Fixed Nitrogen Research Laboratory, testified that if the government should go into the fertilizer business it would not produce fertilizers as cheaply as they are now being produced and sold by private enterprise."

"The House committee on Military Affairs had before it Congressman Madden's bill for the operation and manufacture, with profit limited to eight per cent of cost, but rejected it on the claim that the Madden Bill did not afford adequate protection to the government."

"This objection was fully answered by its final form before the committee. The Madden Bill contained a provision requiring the lessee to surrender to the government, all of the so-called 'primary' or continuously available waterpower that would be produced at Muscle Shoals; and the Nitrate plant and any fertilizer plants that the lessee might build at its own expense."

Furthermore, the lessee voluntarily agreed to hand over to the government without charge and without royalty all fertilizer processes and those of his subsidiary and allied companies, so that the government would have the power, plants and processes with which to engage the business of fertilizer manufacture should the lessee fail. In fact, the lessee exceeded the request of the committee in regard to the capturing, by donating all his processes after having agreed to the return of the fertilizer plants and the water power at actual cost. What greater protection for the government could anyone ask?

"In its present form, the Madden Bill is, the most practical plan that has been proposed for development and operation of Muscle Shoals."

"It would serve in a most desirable manner to relieve the federal government from entering into either the fertilizer business or the power business, and, in the end, enable the government to realize in full both the principal and interest on its entire investment in the Muscle Shoals properties, in addition to a substantial surplus."

"In the interest of government economy and in behalf of farm relief and national defense at Muscle Shoals, the Madden Bill provides for a policy of business common sense which merits speedy recognition and early endorsement in the halls of Congress."

FARM STUDENTS EARN NEAT SUM WHILE LEARNING

Agricultural Classes Show
Increase of Over
Ten Fold

Springfield, Ill. — Agricultural students in Illinois high schools earned $250,082.70 on experimental projects conducted last year as a practical application of instructions they received in school. In 1922, these projects netted $182,295.52, and the revenue has consistently increased since that time, according to the 1927-28 directory and program of agricultural education issued by the vocational agricultural board.

In 1918 there were fifteen vocational agricultural classes in the schools of Illinois. This season there the 181. The student body of the state, in vocational agricultural classes has increased from 243 in 1918 to 4,666 this year, the report shows.

Careful Records Kept
Income exceeding a quarter of a million dollars for the future agriculturists of Illinois is conservatively computed, according to the leaders of this branch of education.

Students who carry on the projects keep accurate records of all items of expense and income. All they invest in any form, including livestock, fowls, feed, material or supplies of any kind, is charged against the project at prevailing market prices, even though the cost to them is less. Income they receive from sales of farm commodities produced are entered to the credit of the projects.

Financial returns from experimental projects, however, is considered as a secondary object of the effort. The primary purpose of the projects is to provide a practical application of the instruction students glean from books and classes. They add materially to the wealth of knowledge texts, lectures and class discussions yield.

State Support Is Valuable
The continuous progress since 1920 recorded in this branch of public education, is attributed to the support and encouragement given to leaders in this service by the state government.

Governor Small, intent on building for the future of the farming industry as well as for the present, considered this form of agricultural education a plan that he could heartily endorse as worthy of the state's support. As this branch of education offers equal opportunities to all the youth of Illinois, regardless of financial status, he outlined extensive plans for its support and gave it his encouragement. The growth in scope of service followed.

Leaders in the various agencies for agricultural advancement find that many schools that are now without vocational agricultural classes hope to add this feature. They find demand for this instruction rapidly increasing.

In schools with the agricultural departments the enrollment is growing. It is expected that within the next few years, if consistently supported, high school agricultural education will continue to advance until students in all communities that desire it will enjoy the opportunities now offered in the 181 that have vocational agricultural departments.

USE THIS PROVED SEED CORN TREATMENT Let Others Do the Experimenting!

You plant corn for profit—not for experiment.

BAYER DUST seed corn treatment makes corn growing more profitable. It is time-tested and field-proved. Four years of actual field use has proven its value.

BAYER DUST prevents rotting of seed in cold, wet weather; improves germination and stand; checks losses from seed-borne and soil-borne diseases; and increases yield from 3 to 10 bushels per acre.

FOLLOW the success of over 200,000 corn growers—use the proved seed corn treatment and plant for profit. Some untended treatment may be beneficial, but let your neighbors do the experimenting.

Tested by the U. S. Dept. of Agric.
Iowa Experiment Station
Illinois Experiment Station

A summary of reports published by these outstanding authorities show that BAYER DUST increased the yield as follows:

Nearly disease-free seed... 3.2 bu. per A.
Average seed... 3.5 bu. per A.
Diplodia-infected seed... 12.1 bu. per A.
Gibberella-infected seed... 15.1 bu. per A.

Proved by 200,000 Growers

Last season over 200,000 Corn Belt growers used Bayer seed treatment. Let these men tell you in their own words what they think of BAYER DUST:

GUARANTEE
Plant a few acres of BAYER DUST treated seed to compare with untreated seed. If, at harvest time, you are not satisfied, return the empty BAYER DUST can to us and we will refund price paid.

Permits Earlier Planting

"The corn did not decay in the soil but came up and did good in spite of the cold wet season."

Insures Germination

"Never had corn come up so since I have been farming—I had a splendid stand."

Prevents Replanting

"My neighbor planted on the same day and did not treat his seed and had to plant over."

Fewer Barren Stalks

"Had fewer barren stalks than other years—dry rot and mouldy ears very nearly eliminated."

Improves Quality

"The treated corn was much better quality—solid, dry ears."

Increases Yield

"Increased my yield from 5 to 15 bushels per acre." "The corn that was not treated was not as good by ten bushels to the acre."

Easy to Use—Costs Little

You can use Bayer Dust at a cost of less than five cents an acre. No special equipment is required. Simply use as a dust treatment. Two bushels of seed can be treated in less than three minutes.

OBITUARY

JOHN W. LOHMEYER
(Contributed)

John W. Lohmeyer was born in Dearborn County, Indiana on Feb. 11, 1881, and departed this life at his home in Franklin Grove, Ill., April 25, 1928, after a lingering illness, attaining an age of 47 years, 2 months and 14 days.

Soon after his birth the deceased was baptized in the Lutheran faith in the name of the Triune God. His early boyhood days were spent in school, and during this time he was made a communicant member of the Lutheran Church by the rite of Confirmation.

On May 29, 1874 Mr. Lohmeyer was united in marriage to Miss Mary Sophia Wittenberg of Osgood, Ind. The newly married couple made their home for ten years on a farm in Ripley County, Indiana. The union was blessed with five children: John Lohmeyer of Dixon, Ill.; Henry Lohmeyer of Walts, New York; Mrs. Chris Landau of Lee Center, Mrs. Robert Garlick of Chicago and Mrs. Charles Crawford of Kansas City, Mo.

In 1884 the deceased and family moved to Farmer City, Ill., where they made their home for nine years, until 1893, when they moved to Lee Center. In 1902 he retired from active farming and made his home in Franklin Grove, where he lived until his demise.

Among the happy events which our departed brother was permitted to enjoy was the celebration of his golden wedding anniversary which took place May 29, 1924. At this occasion all of the children were able to be present for the first time in many years.

In addition to the above named children the deceased is mourned by two sisters, Mrs. Henry Shutte and Mrs. Frank Scheman of Farmer City, also by eleven grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Besides many friends. Five brothers and one sister preceded him across the borderland into the Great Beyond.

The deceased was much loved by those near and dear to him. He was respected by many who knew him and who will miss his presence in the future. Good health was one of his possessions, seldom, if ever, needing medical aid. However about 16 months ago he was taken ill and suffered hemorrhages and partial paralysis which together with his nearly fourscore years took their toll. His time had come and our Heavenly Father whose mercies are every morning new called him away from suffering to Himself. God's ways are not always our ways, but His ways are always best.

"We have spent nearly $150,000.000 trying to enforce prohibition," he says, "and have lost nearly four billions in revenues while the effort was being made—and our last state is worse than our first was."

Gov. Ritchie is best known for his anti-prohibition view, but this is only one item in his general state's rights program. It has attracted the most attention merely because it is the most colorful item.

Brady, Ritchie believes that the nation is suffering from too much centralized government from Washington. He says a multiplying number of federal bureaus, federal commissions and federal laws are gradually extending their power over a people who want really local government dictated by somebody who is perhaps 3,000 miles away.

Gov. Ritchie is on record as having said:

"The Democratic party has always stood for the rights of the states, because it believes that through local self-government we can best attain efficient government and best preserve individual liberties. . . . This reliance upon and acquiescence in federal power is being overdone to an extent that imperils not only the future of the states as states, but the Union itself as well."

"Our government has become the most regulatory in the world, except Russia and Italy. Inspectors, and spies and official regulators follow the 100 per cent American from the day he draws his first nourishment from his mother's inspected breast."

"This great problem (prohibition) cannot be settled by trying to standardize human conduct. A yardstick cannot be applied to it throughout the country. The communities which resent this law cannot be clubbed into taking it."

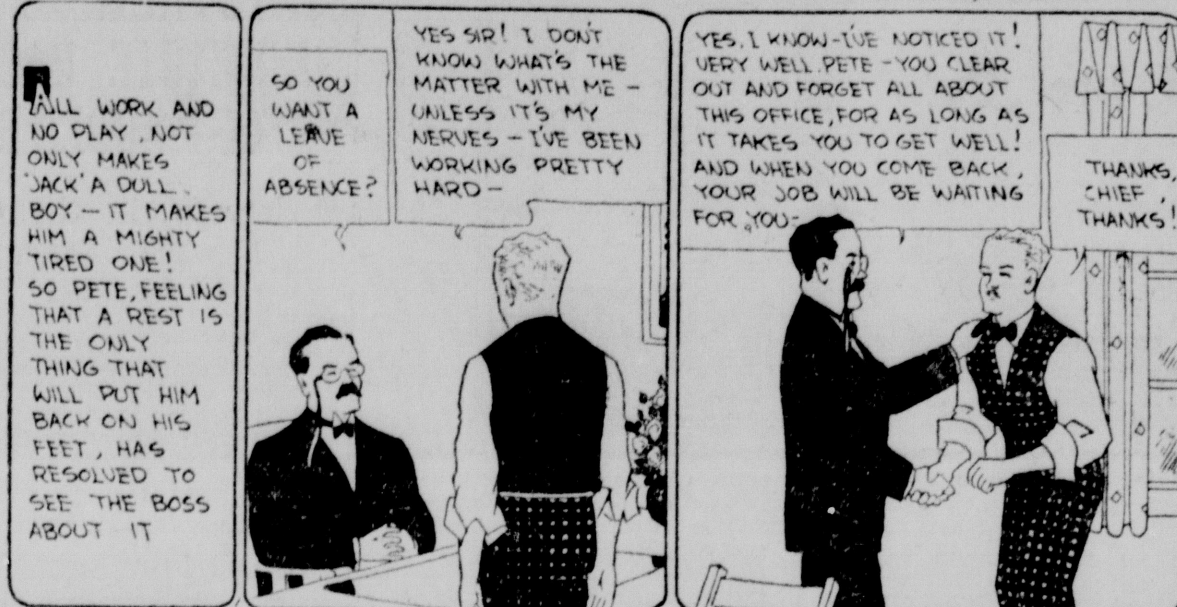

"He (the citizen, is told what he may eat, what he may smoke and everything that he may not drink. What he may read or write or see on the stage is prescribed, too, and not content with this the government advises him how to hang curtains in his home, what meat to cook for dinner and in the year 1927, under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, there was distributed throughout the country a treatise entitled 'A Pocket Essay on Kissing.'"

Maryland's Democratic and equally Democratic governor—a favorite alike with the farmers, the oystermen and the city folks—is such despite the fact that he comes from the upper crust of Maryland aristocracy. The Ritchie family line in Maryland runs back for nearly two centuries.

The son of a Baltimore judge, young Ritchie grew up in a circle of quality and means. He took his A. B. degree at Johns Hopkins in 1896, and later studied law at the University of Maryland, from which he graduated into politics by making soap-box speeches at war rallies.

He does not play golf, he reveres his aged mother, who is his closest companion, he has never driven an auto because he prefers not to and has no hobby but work. The latter has brought about almost a complete reorganization of the state government during his three terms and doubtless explains much of the vote-

LETTER GOLF

FOR SPRING FEVERITES
Here's one for that tired feeling so prevalent this time of the year. The letter golf editor says you can go from YAWN to GAPE in five steps. Perhaps you can do better than that. One solution is on page 11.

Y	A	N
G	A	P
E

THE RULES
1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW to HEN in three strokes, COW, HOW, HEW, HEN.
2—You can change only one letter at a time.
3—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
4—The order of letters cannot be changed.
One solution is printed on page 11.

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE. ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED. SALLY BARR, ward of the state orphanage since she was four, is "famed out" to CLEM CARSON, the summer she is 16, and meets DAVID NASH, a student working on the farm during the vacation. David hits Carson when he makes a pass at Sally. They run away and join a carnival. David as a cook's helper and Sally as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

In Capital City, location of the orphanage, some orphans came running into her tent, chattering about a beautiful "blind beautiful." Sally is recognized, barker says Sally. They run away from ARTHUR VAN HORNE, Easterner, who annoys her by his attention. But the lady, Lalla, is ENID BARR, wife of a wealthy New Yorker. The carnival moves into an adjoining state, Mrs. STONE, mother of the orphanage, follows Sally and confronts her in the sidewalk. Again she hits her. The barker says, "Sally, the barker says Sally. They run away. She and David flee from the carnival. They find a "marrying party" and Sally, the barker says, "I am your mother."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER XI. "Oh!" Sally turned from the shelter of David's arms and took an uncertain step toward her mother, pity fighting with rebellion and bitterness in her overcharged heart. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Barr—Mother—"

"I think you'd better tell me your story as you told it to me, Mrs. Barr," Mrs. Stone could keep silent no longer. "Now, Sally, I want you to listen to every word your mother says and bear in mind that she is your mother and that she has been hunting for you for weeks, her heart full of love for you because you were her child."

For twelve years Sally had obeyed every command uttered in that harsh, emphatic voice and she obeyed now, allowing herself to be led by Mrs. Stone to the sofa. Enid Barr took her seat on one side of the girl and David, without asking permission of either of the two older women who watched him with hostile, jealous eyes, took his place on the other side, his hand closing tightly over Sally's.

Jealously, Enid Barr reached for the girl's other hand and held it against her cheek for a moment before she began her story, her controlling voice low and controlled at first. Mrs. Stone sat rigidly erect in an old-fashioned Morris chair, her lips folded with an expression of grim patience, as if she regretted the necessity of once more hearing a story which affronted her Puritanical principles.

"I was just your age, Sally," Enid began quietly, "just sixteen, when I met the man who became your father. I was Enid Halsted then. He was fifteen years older than I. I thought I loved him—very much. He was very handsome."

Her eyes flickered toward the soft tendrils of black hair that showed under the brim of Sally's little blue felt hat. "My father, a proud man as well as a very rich one, forbade me to see the man, discharged him, but—it was too late."

She interrupted herself suddenly, leaning across Sally to challenge David with eyes which were again arrogant. "I'm permitting you to hear all this, Mr. Nash, because I know that Sally would not listen if I sent you from the room. But I must ask your promise never to tell anyone what you hear today."

"I'll be true, Mrs. Barr, and anything that I hear today, either her past, present or future—his eyes flicked a tiny smile at Sally as he repeated the familiar phrase."

Her voice had the same quality upon her arms, as if expecting to see upon them the marks of her daughter's blows. A gust of anger swept over her, leaving her beautiful face quite white and darkening her eyes until they were almost as deep a blue as Sally's.

"You cannot marry the boy, Sally! I'm sorry that almost my first words to you should be a reminder of my authority over you as your mother. Come here, Sally!" But almost in the moment of its returning the arrogance for which she was noted dropped from her, and humility and grief took its place. "Please forgive me, Sally. It's just that I'm jealous of your love for this boy and grieved that you want to leave me for him. But—oh, why should you love me? God knows I've done nothing yet to make you love me! I can't blame you for hating and reproaching me—"

I can't blame you for hating and reproaching me—"

"Oh!" Sally turned from the shelter of David's arms and took an uncertain step toward her mother, pity fighting with rebellion and bitterness in her overcharged heart. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Barr—Mother—"

"I think you'd better tell me your story as you told it to me, Mrs. Barr," Mrs. Stone could keep silent no longer. "Now, Sally, I want you to listen to every word your mother says and bear in mind that she is your mother and that she has been hunting for you for weeks, her heart full of love for you because you were her child."

For twelve years Sally had obeyed every command uttered in that harsh, emphatic voice and she obeyed now, allowing herself to be led by Mrs. Stone to the sofa. Enid Barr took her seat on one side of the girl and David, without asking permission of either of the two older women who watched him with hostile, jealous eyes, took his place on the other side, his hand closing tightly over Sally's.

Jealously, Enid Barr reached for the girl's other hand and held it against her cheek for a moment before she began her story, her controlling voice low and controlled at first. Mrs. Stone sat rigidly erect in an old-fashioned Morris chair,

SHARKEY DROPPED DELANEY IN FIRST ROUND OF CONTEST

Vicious Attack Stopped French-Canadian Quickly

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, May 1.—The storm of the old Jack Sharkey, furious youngster who once smashed his way to the very door of the heavyweight throne room, has swept again through Madison Square Garden.

Like a tornado in human form, the Garulous Gob swept out of his corner last night and crushed Jack Delaney as if the Bridgeport warrior, himself a disappointed title contender, epitomized all the humiliation and heartbreak of defeats that had come to Sharkey since Jack Dempsey knocked him out last summer.

Only one minute and 13 seconds of the first round was the dulled rapier of the north able to last before Sharkey's crushing drive. Almost before the echoes of the opening gong had died, a volley of short hooks to the head dropped Delaney, badly hurt, to one knee.

Snarling, bitter, tigerish in his ferocity, Sharkey leapt into his wobbly foe, felling him with a looping right to the head. Then as Delaney writhed on the canvas, pulled himself to his knees, and swayed finally to his feet, Sharkey waited, right hand poised.

Terrific Punch
Full on the chin, with power sufficient to fell an ox, the rampaging sailor ripped his right uppercut flush into Delaney's twisted features as the trembling French-Canadian, eyes closed, head buried in his chest, stumbled forward.

No fighter could have risen from that final blow.

Down in the resin dust, blood trickling from his mouth and ear, Delaney toppled like a tall, statuesque tree of his northern forests, cut off at the base. The force of the blow jolted his red mouth piece half out between his lips, a grotesque picture as Delaney rubbed his face in the canvas, and fought subconsciously, to regain control of his muscles and numbed brain.

Above the fallen fighter, now still as the referee finished the count of ten, Sharkey snarled, tears of pure ferocity and pentup feeling rolling down his cheeks.

Struck Not One Blow
Delaney never struck a blow in his own defense. Vainly, after an initial futile stab with a left as the round opened, the statuesque woodsman retreated blindly, arms about his head and body, vainly trying to ward off the shock of Sharkey's attack.

In the crowd about the arena were Baron Huesefeld, Hermann Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice, trans-Atlantic fliers, viewing a spectacle of this kind for the first time.

The disastrous defeat ended Delaney's short and disappointing career as a heavyweight. The Bridgeport warrior relinquished his light-heavyweight crown to engage the big fellows only to lose his first major chance against Tom Heeneey.

team is now under way, and it is planned to play the first game of the season next Sunday afternoon.

The veteran Steve Stiff, well known old timer and popular player, will be manager of the team and has issued a call for all candidates for places on the team to report for practice any evening this week at Browns Field, east of the shoe factory, at 6.30 o'clock.

Under Steve's direction a campaign to raise enough money to buy uniforms and equipment will get under way this week, and it is hoped the popular support will be sufficient to enable Dixon to again have base ball.

The headquarters of the team will be at the Hub billiard room, 91 Galena ave., where anyone interested may obtain information concerning the team and the secretary can be found to arrange for contests.
